

David Davenport

Senior Associate

David Davenport brings over 15 years of experience to NREUV in all the major phases of construction: architecture, construction cost estimating and project management. He has led efforts in construction management in over 300 residential units throughout his construction career.

Prior to joining NREUV, Mr. Davenport was operating his own company, Parlay Construction, where he evaluated the project potential at time of acceptance, including review of architectural drawings, cost estimates, inspected the construction phases per approved request for payment, managed the cost and project scheduling, and negotiated the changes to construction contracts and insurance of quality control.

Mr. Davenport's extensive knowledge in construction management is a value added to NREUV.
